#Dysturb is a network of photojournalists driven by the desire to make visual information freely accessible to a wider audience by pasting large images in city streets.

#Dysturb presents photojournalism in a new, innovative way, completely independent from the restrictions of conventional news publishing channels. They believe in enabling youth to further understand the images and information they see everyday, with interventions in streets, schools and online; now pasted more than 500 posters in 40 cities and schools around the world. Ballarat is next!

Students will hear from the #dysturb team including Madelena Rehorek, Isabella Capezio and guest photojournalist Barat Ali Batoor. Following the presentation students can view paste ups being installed and teams of selected students will take part in the actions.

This great opportunity will especially appeal to students interested in photo journalism, media and communications.
